THE BICENTENNIAL

Coming with this fall 1975 issue

THE BATTLE OF SARATOGA

in four consecutive installments

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

LIBRARY

520 EAST 58TH STREET

Foreword

The following statistics were copied from the original town records at the Town Office, Stockbridge, Massachusetts, from the record of the Rev. Stephen West and the records of the Episcopal Church. All other sources are stated in the text. These records are supplemented by the Records of the Stockbridge Congregational Church and the Records of the Church of New Lebanon, N.Y. in the Rollin H. Cooke Collection in this library, the Berkshire Athenaeum.

In the case of the references to the records of Sheffield, Mass., the notation of volumes is my own. I have designated the oldest book, 1733-1772, Vol. I; a large book containing Lemuel Barnard's Record of Marriages, 1781-1794, Vol. II; a small account-book, 1795, containing records on a few pages in the back, Vol. III; another account-book, 1797-1850, Vol. IV.

Acknowledgment is due Mr. Adam Schilling, Town Clerk of Stockbridge; the late Rev. C. Williams Fisher; the Rev. Edmund Randolph Laine, Jr.; Mr. ^{Wm. P.} Henry Powers, Town Clerk of Lenox, Mass. and to the late Mr. Henry Clay Clarke, Town Clerk of Sheffield, Mass. without whose courtesy and co-operation this compilation would have been impossible.

Blanche C. Stockwell.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions.

2. It is essential to ensure that all data is entered correctly and that the system is regularly updated.

3. The second part of the document outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data.

4. These methods include both qualitative and quantitative approaches, each with its own strengths and weaknesses.

5. The third part of the document provides a detailed overview of the results of the study.

6. The findings indicate that there is a significant correlation between the variables studied.

7. This correlation suggests that the factors being investigated are closely related.

8. The final part of the document discusses the implications of these findings for future research.

9. It is recommended that further studies be conducted to explore these relationships in greater depth.

Due: Monday, September 2, 2013, 11:59 PM

100 points

1. (10 points) Let X and Y be independent random variables with

$$P(X = 1) = \frac{1}{2}, P(X = 2) = \frac{1}{4}, P(X = 3) = \frac{1}{4}$$

$$P(Y = 1) = \frac{1}{3}, P(Y = 2) = \frac{2}{3}$$

$$P(X + Y = 3) = \frac{1}{6}$$

$$P(X + Y = 4) = \frac{1}{3}$$

$$P(X + Y = 5) = \frac{1}{6}$$

$$P(X + Y = 6) = \frac{1}{6}$$

$$P(X + Y = 7) = \frac{1}{6}$$

$$P(X + Y = 8) = \frac{1}{6}$$

Find the joint probability mass function of X and Y .

THE EFFECT OF VITAMIN DEFICIENCY ON THE GROWTH OF THE RAT

BY J. H. HOLLAND, JR., AND J. H. HOLLAND, JR.

From the Department of Physiology, University of California, Berkeley, California

Received for publication, February 1, 1919

Read at the meeting of the American Medical Association, San Francisco, California, December 1, 1918

Revised manuscript received, March 1, 1919

Abstract: The effect of a diet deficient in vitamins on the growth of the rat was studied. The results show that the growth of the rat is retarded when the diet is deficient in vitamins.

Introduction: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a diet deficient in vitamins on the growth of the rat.

Materials and Methods: The rats were divided into two groups. One group was fed a diet deficient in vitamins, and the other group was fed a diet containing all the necessary vitamins.

Results: The rats fed the deficient diet grew much smaller than the rats fed the diet containing all the necessary vitamins.

Conclusions: The results of this study show that a diet deficient in vitamins retards the growth of the rat.

Summary: The growth of the rat is retarded when the diet is deficient in vitamins.

THE EFFECT OF THE VITAMIN DEFICIENCY ON THE GROWTH OF THE RAT

W. L. MASON, JR.

From the Department of Physiology, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

Received for publication, February 1, 1919.

Revised, March 1, 1919.

Read at the meeting of the American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill., October 1, 1918.

Presented at the meeting of the American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill., October 1, 1918.

Revised, March 1, 1919.

The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a diet deficient in vitamins on the growth of the rat. The rats were divided into two groups, one of which was fed a diet deficient in vitamins and the other a diet containing all the necessary vitamins. The results showed that the rats fed the deficient diet grew much more slowly than those fed the diet containing all the necessary vitamins.

The results of this study are of great importance in determining the effect of vitamin deficiency on the growth of the rat. It is now known that a diet deficient in vitamins will result in a marked retardation of growth. This is of great importance in determining the effect of vitamin deficiency on the growth of the rat.

THE EFFECT OF VITAMIN DEFICIENCY ON THE GROWTH OF THE RAT

By J. W. MURPHY, M.D., and J. H. HARRIS, M.D.
From the Department of Pathology, University of Illinois, Chicago, Ill.
(Received for publication, February 1, 1924.)
The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a diet deficient in vitamins upon the growth of the rat. The animals were divided into two groups: one group received a diet deficient in vitamins, and the other group received a diet containing all the necessary vitamins. The results showed that the rats on the deficient diet grew much more slowly than those on the complete diet.

The rats on the deficient diet were significantly smaller than those on the complete diet at the end of the experiment. This suggests that vitamins are essential for normal growth in the rat.

The results of this study are in agreement with those of other investigators who have shown that vitamins are essential for normal growth in various animals.

The authors wish to thank the National Research Council for its generous support of this work.

THE EFFECT OF THE INGESTION OF LARGE QUANTITIES OF SALT UPON THE BLOOD PRESSURE
IN MAN
BY

SUMMARY
The effect of the ingestion of large quantities of salt upon the blood pressure in man has been studied. The results show that the ingestion of large quantities of salt causes a marked increase in the blood pressure. This increase is not due to a direct effect of the salt upon the blood vessels, but is due to a reflex action of the salt upon the nervous system. The increase in blood pressure is not permanent, but returns to normal after the salt has been excreted from the body.

FREEMAN, ELIZABETH, (colored) known by the name of "MUMBET", died Dec. 28, 1829. Her supposed age was 85 years.
She was born a slave and remained a slave for nearly thirty years. She could neither read nor write, yet in her own sphere she had no superior nor equal. She neither wasted time nor property.
She never violated a trust nor failed to perform a duty. In every situation of domestic trial, she was the most efficient helper and the tenderest friend.
Good mother, farewell.

Warner Exhibit At Library Features Book

STOCKBRIDGE — A George Warner exhibit is on display in the main lobby of the public library, featuring his book "Greenbelt: The Cooperative Community."

Mr. Warner, a native of this town, is a graduate of Williams High School in the class of 1919. He moved to Washington in 1921 to take a position with the State Department. That year he married Claire E. Pratt of Pittsfield and for the next 17 years they lived in Washington.

In 1938 they moved, with their daughter and twin sons, to Greenbelt, Md. While at Greenbelt, Mr. Warner served a term as mayor. He is president and treasurer of the Germantown Cooperative Assn. and holds the same offices in the association's Federal Credit Union.

His story tells the story of Greenbelt, a planned community and one of the most famous in this country. Greenbelt was started by the federal government in 1935 as an experiment in community planning. Mr. Warner recounts the many problems the first residents of that town faced and solved.

The exhibit includes a program of the Williams High 1919 commencement exercises as well as gifts of Mr. Warner to the historical room, particularly those relating to family records. The Warner family at one time owned hundreds of acres in Glendale which were bought from the Indians. Mr. Warner's uncle, Marshall Warner, sold to Daniel Chester French "Chesterwood." Mr. Warner's parents owned the Warner homestead now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Gray.
